About

This is a book that brings you through landscapes and architecture. It is a book that tries to bring photographs to life through color and contrast. I enjoy taking photographs of things that matter to me and have a meaning and that is what I want to show through this book.

Most of the photographs are either landscape or architecture of different buildings. It is my first photography class I have ever taken and my first time using a camera. I enjoy taking photographs of things that matter to me and have a meaning and that is what I want to show through this book.
