

Rick Riordan is the author of New York Times #1 best-selling The Heroes of Olympus, Book 1: The Lost Hero; Book 2: The Son of Neptune. The New York Times #1 best-selling The Kane Chronicles, Book 1: The Red Pyramid; Book 2: The Throne of Fire. As well as the five books in the New York Times #1 best-selling Percy Jackson and the Olympians series.

Percy Jackson is confused. When he wakes up, he doesn't remember more than his name. His brain-fuzz stays, even after he is told that he's a demigod. Percy manages to make it to the Roman camp for half-bloods, despite the fact that he had to kill monsters on the way, who would not stay dead.

Hazel Levesque is supposed to be dead. She didn't do a very good job in her past life. When a voice took over her mother and forced Hazel to use her "gift" for evil, Hazel couldn't stop it. The future is now at risk because of her mistake.

Frank Zhang has always been told that he is descended from ancient heroes, but he never believes the stories. When he finds out he's a half-blood he hopes Apollo will claim him, because the only thing he is good at is archery. His big physique makes him feel like a clumsy ox, especially in front of his best friend at camp, Hazel. He trusts her completely, enough to share the secret he holds close to his heart.

Riordan's seamless weaving of various cultural mythologies into a modern landscape continues to shine in [The] Son of Neptune. As in previous books, the plot is engrossing, the characters robust and compelling. Percy, Frank and Hazel alternate as narrators without missing a beat of pace, suspense, or humor. [The] Son of Neptune is yet another absorbing and exciting addition to Riordan's chronicles.
